

Violent and inappropriate sexual content is far too prevalent on television, especially at hours that children are more likely to view. I find that the graphic descriptions of the Michael Jackson trial and the Priest Pedophilia story on mainstream news broadcasts are inappropriate. We are becoming extremely selective on what we watch in our household. What I am most troubled by is that we cannot watch the news with our children at their ages - mostly because I don't think it is right to damage their view of the world with the shrill, violent, inappropriate sexual images, topics, and arguments that are virtually nonstop on most channels.

Thankfully there are DVDs of decent programs, and TIVO, that allow us to view and edit the garbage on TV.
